Heritage Action Day

What?

Heritage Action Day is an event for young people in England to co-design their own heritage social action. Explore historic places, learn digital skills or discuss what young people want. It's up to you!

Where?

The day will take place in Coventry. We will meet at Drapers' Hall and will explore the City Gates and the Anglican Chapel in London Road Cemetery.

When?

10:30-16:30 on Saturday 18th February in Coventry.
Meeting place: Drapers' Hall, Coventry.

You will also be expected to join two online sessions before and after Heritage Action Day (on 17th January and 1st March from 6-7pm).

Who?

This event is exclusively for young people aged 10-20.

Why?

Youth Social Action is an important way to make a difference to the world around you. Young people have been left out of conversations for too long about how we should be reusing historic buildings and how to include you in important decisions.

This is your chance to take action, have your say and meet other young people to tell people in England how to make sure your voices are included when it comes to decisions about heritage and historic places.

Come and meet other young people at this amazing opportunity to have your voice heard!

How?

To reserve your free place, go to
<https://heritage-action-day.eventbrite.co.uk>

We can offer up to £200 to cover travel and accommodation for you and a parent/guardian.
